Description: The Ch'Romin class of cruiser was designed and built by the people of the planet Cerea, a peaceloving people. The Ch'Romin serves with the New Republic, and although is very under-armed for a ship of its size (since the Cerean's were somewhat resistant to build a ship of war at all, but their support of the New Republic against the Empire, made them feel they had to lend their support), the Ch'Romin has become specialised in fleet actions against other capital ships. With its heavy tractor beams, and heavy ion cannons, the Ch'Romin can immobilise and disable the majority of other capital ships, however its lack of damaging weapons means that if unsupported it can recieve severe damage before it can get in close enough to take advantage of its weapons, because of this it is rare to see a Ch'Romin serving on its own.
