Weapons D6 / Lumnar Industries Blast

Blast Sword

Lumnar Industries has begun to gain a reputation for designing strange weapons and mass producing them for the open market. The Blast sword is a sword-blaster hybrid. It's a sword with sharpened edges but instead of a point it has a blast nozzle. A powerpack is fit into the handle of the sword and an energy dial is set just below the crossguard. This design was originaly seen on some planet at the edge of the unknown regions for dueling.

Wes Janson: "So it's a blaster you hit somebody with. I have to have one."
