

ConsuleTec A-A7 Assault Weapon

The ConsuleTec A-A7 is basically a blatant rip-off of the concept BlasTech used in their E11/S. Like the E11/S, the ConsuleTec A-A7 is a combination of a blaster rifle and a slug throwing rifle.

ConsuleTec used its A-1 blaster rifle as the base weapon and added their specially designed A7 under-barrel slugthrower rifle attachment which has a built in silencer. The A7 unit can be removed from the main weapon but can't be fired unless it is attached to a ConsuleTec A-1 blaster rifle as the A7 was designed specifically for the A-1 and nothing else.

The A-A7 is 78 centimeters in length (with stock extended) and greatly resembles the ConsuleTec A-1 blaster rifle. The under-barrel slugthrower uses specialized armor-piercing rounds (but can also use exploding rounds) to cut through most modern body armor with ease.
