Description: the Gildolyn Battlecruiser is a large cylindical craft with a double quad winged structure and mottled red, brown and orange biomechanical hull, normally piloted by a force sensitive who bonds with the craft in childhood, they can be controlled by a normal crew but since the Gildolyn themselves are force sensitive and do not sell the type to other races this doesn't happen except in rare circumstances.
The Battlecruiser is extremely powerful and even a single one can overpower the entire navy of some lesser star nations.
Twenty thousand of these craft fought the Kingdom in the Battle of the Ark in 95657 CE and all of them were believed destroyed, however in 99896 CE Countess Celia of Norheim discovered a fleet of thousands of Gildolyn ships while lost in Hyperspace and bargained for their aid in the Koballian Remnants fight against the Cartagia Cartel.
