

Weapons D6 / Carrington RC-P120

Carrington RC-P120

The RC-P120 is perhaps the most advanced personal assault weapon designed and manufactured by Carrington Institute. Boasting an incredible 120 rounds of ammunition, this weapon has the capability of laying down the suppressing firepower of four standard slugthrower assault rifles.

An experimental stealth system was supposed to be built into the weapon, which, unfortunately, did have the desired results that Carrington had intended. In theory, this secondary function would act much like a personal cloaking device. However, this was just not practical by galactic standards.

There has been some wild rumors stating that Carrington indeed perfected this extremely compact cloaking device and secretly sold a very limited numbers to Imperial Intelligence at an extreme cost.
