

VerdanTech Energy Katana

Verdant Technologies looked at the traditional jedi lgihtsaber and saw a great market. People looked back on the 'good ole days' with spome fondness. The esoteric nature of lgihtsabers could be capitalized on as VT saw it. Thye set about trying to reproduce something at least clsoe to the lgihtsaber. What it created was the ER0 series of weapons. Rather than using a focusing crystal like lightsaers, the ER0's use a special crsytaline matrix. This makes the edge of the blade much less smooth, and it 'trails' somewhat as it is swung' Energy is put through a sort of plasma infusion state. Using technolgy gleamed from Lumnar Industires, an ether battery was devloped. This makes it so that the blades pull the energy from the world around it, not needing a recharge. As was said ebfore, the enrgy is focused into a partial plasma state, and when it is swung some of the enrgy can start to 'trail' behind the blade as it is swung. The X07 forms a fairly long blade with a slgiht curve to it. This blade is good for combat from a few paces away.
