

Weapons D6 / Explosive Dart Shooter

Assassin's Explosive Dart Shooter

Explosive dart shooters are a fairly uncommon but potent assassination weapon. They can be disguised to look like anything, from macobinoculars, to a datapad, to a camera. The only requirement is it msut have on dimension of 15 centimeters for the dart launcher. The ammount of ammo it can hold depends on any extra space devoted to it. Most of these weapons have no more than 6 shots as any more would make the object very alrge and noticeable. The darts fire silently and without any flash. They move at extremely high velocity and have a penetration force equal to the ammount of punch found in a standard blaster pistol. The dart will keep going untill it can't penetrate any further, in which case it will explode. This will optimally occur deep within the target's vitals. The explosion had more force thsaan even a normal grenade, but is highly localized. The dart thusly leaves a small entry wound, and no exit wound. It is not hard for someone who is familair with the explosive darts, to figure out what has hapopened when they see a victim of this weapon. The victim will most likely spit up large quantaties of blood and will have a small area of their vitals blown apart.
