Sulovani Mark-XXXIII Attack Tank

The Sulovani are a race of sentient artifical vbeings from outside the galaxy. It is unknown who originally created them but they gained sentience and broke away and destroyed their masters. They created other sentient artificials, computers, machines, droids ect. They built an entir civilization with castes based on function, industirlal labour, intellectual, military ect. They took over all the space that was controled by their former masters and reshaped it. Afetr they wiped out the last survivors of their creator race, they were not satisfied. They felt they were perfect and flesh and blood creatures were a plague on all the universe and had to be eliminated. They expanded outward, they expoanded across one fourth of their galaxy but were stopepd by what they called the Great Wall. This was a strange energy disrupting phenomenon that blocked any further travael through the galaxy on their part. So instead they expanded outside their galaxy. They conquered countless races and none stood a chance. That was until they met a race that was also conquering their own galaxy, Humans. These Human creatures were clever and icnredibly dangerous violent beings bent on domination and destruction. They and incredible willpower and resisted the Sulovani by sheer forceof will. The Sulovani retreated in defeat. They continued scouring the space outside the humans' galaxy until they emt yet napother conqueror race, the Ssi-ruuk. Ever scicne their first encounter the ssi-ruuk and the Sulovani have been at war with one another. To try and breka the deadlock, the Sulovani started a new line of powerful attack tanks with Sulovani sentience in them. The conflict between the Sulovani and the Ssi-ruuk blew over into the human galaxy causing it to be terrorized by both yet again.

The Mark-XXXIII was designed to be the ultimate Sulovani Attack Tank. Its main armament consists of three 200cm hellbores, mounted separately in three turrets. Secondary armament includes sixteen 30cm hellbore infinite repeaters in two lateral batteries, and four 240cm howitzers. Road speed is approximately 110 kph. The Mark-XXXIII is a full planetary scale assaul craft with three large cannons capable of causing signifigant damage to orbiting starships as well as four high bore howitzers capable of decimating large areas with ease. among both the citizens of the "Human Galaxy" and the Ssi-ruuk it gained a reputation. It was thought that once you let a Mark-XXXIII get through and land on a planet, that planet was lost. Shortly before Admiral Daala's second attack on the New Republic, a Sulovani Mark-XXXIII landed on a world controled by high Admiral Terradoc by mistake. Terradoc's fleet responded to the diustress calls from the planet and his Victory Star Destroyers launched an orbit bombardment on the XXXIII. Three Victory Star Destroyers were detstroyed and six mroe severely damaged before the XXXIII was stopped thanks to heavy Concussion missile bombardment. Unfortunately the missiles left so little of the XXXIII that nothing could really be taken for study. Although the "Human Galaxy" lost it's oppurtunity to reverse engineer the massive tank, it broke the legend of the unbeatable Mark-XXXIII and the Sulovani tried a little harder to stick to battling the Ssi-ruuk for the time being.
