The dominater is designed specifically for close up fighting, with a primary role of anti-infantry. The 230mm cannon however are more than capable of destroying most armoured vehicles. The dominator was designed and built by the Noqtuar HPL, and while only a few of the massive tanks exist, they have seen heavy action on the continent of Compthea on the planet Fanjin. The dominator was one of the last major designs to be built by the HPL's Defense Corp. before Loblic Arms arrived in the Nethin system and started supplying more advanced weaponry to the Noqtuar.
