

Merr-Sonn Personal Shield

The Merr-Sonn Personal Shield is meant to provide a high degree of protection against ranged weapons, without the bulk and inconvenience or armor. It consists of a medium sized belt unit that is easily concealed inside of robes and cloaks. Popular with nobility, it projects a particle/energy shield of approximately one meter diameter. It has the drawbacks of being highly noticeable and having a high power draw and the protection work both way so weapon cannot be fired from inside shield. When used in conjunction with power generators, it has seen some use with shock troops and raiders.
