Pain Elementals are floating brown demons with two feeble arms, a single eye, horns and a large mouth. They are thought to be related to Cacodemons. Pain Elementals interestingly attack by spawning Lost Souls which fly right at their target, but afterwards stick around to serve the Pain Elemental. It appears they cannot spawn them except to attack fortunately preventing them from generating armies of lost souls.

When Pain Elementals die they explode with 3 Lost Souls rising from the blast. It is thought their mouths serve as a portal to another dimension.
