

Starships D6 / Fluffy Bunny Planetary Denial

Fluffy Bunny Planetary Denial Vessel

The invasion of the Yuuzhan Vong sounded the death knell of the "Imperial" class Star Destroyer. It also signaled an end to the superiority of the "Super"-class Star Destroyer. Bastion's R&D specialists quickly produced its capable replacement, the "Eternal," But the "Eternal" was not enough. The Yuuzhan Vong captured planets at such an alarming rate that Imperial strategists could only stare in envy. It became obvious that a vessel was needed to make those victories shallow and meaningless. The Bastion DMR facility designed the "Fluffy Bunny" class Planetary Denial Vessel and gave it to Kuat Drive Yards through the MattCorp front company.

The "Fluffy Bunny" has a simple hull consisting of a bow sphere with the two ovoid MCPS Arrays and a rounded cylindrical main hull with four docking arms for the Remote Missile Batteries. The 'head' is the where most of the crew stays because the main hull is a huge generator. The "Fluffy Bunny" is designed to take massive amounts of punishment when it executes its mission of entering Yuuzhan Vong systems and destroying the occupied planets.

Craft: MattCorp "Fluffy Bunny" Planetary Denial Vessel

Type: Planetary Denial Vessel

Scale: Capital
