

Starships D6 / New Republic Star Avenger

New Republic Star Avenger

JDS Corporation's v110 Avenger-class Star Cruiser is one of the newest warship designs to be incorporated into the New Republic arsenal. JDS 'borrowed' the wedge-shaped design feature that Kuat Drive Yards used in their Imperial Star Destroyer line and modified it with a pair of lengthy extension housing several tractor beam projectors. There are two massive ventral fighter bays that house the 144 starfighters carried on board. The bridge is located within the ship's superstructure instead of being an extension off of it like most other ships, this keeps the command crew safe from enemy fire and doesn't make the bridge a nice target for enemy warships.
