

Starships D6 / Spitball Corvette

Spitball Corvette

This lovely ship by Verdant Spaceworks, was essentially a CEC CR-90 Corvette that was slightly modified. Some of the cargo space was taken out and a few of the weapons were stripped away and in their place banks of concussion missile launchers were installed. These launchers could fire separately or in linked banks for maximum firepower. The ship gets its name from a popular maneuver for pirates to use with this vessel, where they roll the ship to keep fresh launchers pointed at the enemy ship. This can be used once to fire a single "spitball" of concussion missiles at the target to cover the launch of the fighters from the small ventral bay built into the ship.
