

Starships D6 / Incursor Raiding Cruiser

Incursor Raiding Cruiser

This highly advanced ship was designed by the Blood Lust pirate F?ros Iennis as a technologically up to date raiding ship. Though only one is currently built, F?ros plans to have these as the main force of the Blood Lusts soon. Its design is based off of several ships - such as Lornonar/Kuat's Stiletto and its multiple power generators and Seinar's Surveyor with its highly advanced sensor arrays- and also with technical ingenious by F?ros himself. It's main weapons are the 25 heavy paralysis cannons located all along the ship's hull. It also has a powerful cutting beam located in the front of the ship and used to breach the hull of raided ships for entry of boarding parties. It has very powerful focused sensors, making the scans of specific ships quite accurate.
