Description: Although bearing a racing tag, the G-Tech Jet-Turbo Racing Swoop isn't actually designed as a racing vehicle even though it is built to the same standards. This extremely fast vehicle was actually designed for the gang and street racing market, therefore finding itself made semi legal on a number of worlds. This combined with the bikes high cost makes this swoop fairly rare, but when encountered the massive top speed and custom styling makes the bike stand out on the street. G-Tech has professionally raced modified Jet-Turbo's in galactic championships with a good record, and has managed to win a few of the major trophies. A newer version is due out soon, which is rumoured to be an even faster single rider vehicle, but whether a market exists for this remains to be seen.
