Description: Mou-Gun Industries of Corellia created this light blaster pistol designed for home defence and personal protection. Although it has a smaller charge than most blaster pistols, it does fair damage and is a reliable model which can be left for a long time between servicing. As such it has been used in fair quantities by the Rebellion, although users must be warned that in any sustained fire-fight the heat sink on the back of the weapon can become very hot as it disperses the excess heat making it somewhat awkward to handle without burning yourself.
