Lynx Combat Support Repulsortank

The modern-day repulsortank is fast and is both heavily armored and armed. The Imperial Lynx Combat Support Repulsortank is designed to far surpass any enemy tank, especially MetaCorp's "Marauder" and RanCorp's "Rancor" repulsortanks.

The Lynx is armed to the teeth, with a 125mm massdriver cannon incorporating 'sabot' ammunition (see stats). A medium blaster cannon acts as a secondary weapon, in case the main gun has become disabled or inoperative. An RB-23 medium repeating blaster provides covering fire for the crew when being attacked by infantry/anti-tankers.
