StormElite Anti-Partisan Soldier

On almost every Rebel sympathizing Imperial-occupied world, citizens unite together to form para-military groups known in common terms as "partisans". Partisans work either with only one other person or in enormous, "group-effort" quantities.

Civilian partisans are usually associated with sneak attacks, most of which including convoy raiding, kidnapping, sabotage and rescue operations. Partisans are usually not very well trained, however, when mounted in strength, pose a threat to even the Empire. The loose term partisans can cover a great deal of guerilla attackers, from civilians fighting for their planet to criminal organizations to the Rebel Alliance.

The Empire created the StormElite Anti-Partisan soldier in response to these Imperial-war-effort disruptions, using specially trained SE soldiers to go and literally "hunt" partisans that are believed to be operating on specific regions of Imperial-occupied planets.

By far the most ruthless branch of the StormElite, Anti-Partisan soldiers are given simple search-and-destroy orders before even setting foot into a hot zone. StormElite Anti-Partisan soldier tactics can be summed up with the classic phrase "Shoot first, ask questions later."

Although ruthless, the SE Anti-Partisan soldiers are also well trained for the job they do. Training includes a six-month wilderness advanced infantry training course, along with special training in such fields as counter-sabotage, archaic munitions, and small-unit tactics. However, due to the nature of partisan spirit, SE Anti-Partisan soldier must often deal with civilians in brutal, unconventional warfare ways.

The standard StormElite Anti-Partisan uniform consists of olive-drab pants, a light olive-drab undershirt, camouflage field helmet, and a woodland dot-style camouflage pullover smock. The undershirt, as with the SE Shock Troops' undershirt, has the letters "SE" on the right side collar patch and the Anti-Partisan soldier symbol (an 'S' for StormElite in the shape of a downward pointing arrow) on the left side patch.
