Description: The BG-19 series of repair droids was designed as a challenge to Industrial Automatons all conquering R series of Astromech Droids. The BG-19 was designed as a starship technician however, and with its more humanoid shape was built to interact with humans more easily and have a personality which can only be described as cheery. Although a well design droid, which is popular for its all round quality and abilities, some owners have been disappointed with the BG-19's lack of skills in fields other than repair hoping for some piloting skills. that the BG-19's pure ability cannot help with.
