Description: The CEC Korrina Class Transport is an older model, sold during the final days of the Old Republic. Although a well designed vessel, it could not compete with the faster, better armed, and more spacious vessels introduced during the Imperial era, so manufacture ceased in favour of vessels like the Corellian Corvette which could defend themselves during this dangerous time. The Korrina is not commonly seen any more, but the few that remain in service are still amoungst the most comfortable and reliable transport ships in existance.
