Description: The standard medium transport built by Czerka and sold throughout the galaxy during the Mandalorian and Sith Wars of its era, these vessels were especially common in the Sith fleet due to the alliance forged between the corporation and the Dark Lords Revan and Malak. Medium Transports were the equivalent of the Light Freighters used during the Imperial Era, and were used to carry small cargoes across the galaxy. This Czerka Transport is heavily armed for this class of vessel, however due to the high levels of conflict of this time this only served to make this design a top seller for Czerka with both independent traders and with the governments of the time.
