Description: Made out of found junk and debris his crew mates had accumulated, Vratik'k'kitch, the insane verpine tech created the droid that would come to be known as "Kitch's Custom FUBAR droid thing." A largely useless droid, it did little. Trying to find a niche in the crew and make itself more useful, it took a number of correspondence courses, all of which were pretty much useless too. It left the crew for a limited period to pursue a career in Alderaanian Sea snake hairstyling, finding that such animals not only did not have hair but were now extinct with that whole Alderaan going boom thing, he rejoined the crew and is still pretty much useless.
