*: The DragonFire Dropship have removeable cargo pods available in two configurations, one to carry troops, the other to carry cargo. The two figures provided are the configuration for the different pods.

Description: The Griven "DragonFire" Dropship is the standard miltary cargo vessel used my the Griven Empire, they are mainly used to transport troops, cargo and vessels between Griven Destroyers and planetary surfaces. They are unarmed and rely upon fighter escort for protection, and can be configured for cargo or troop transportation duty, dropping off a removable cargo pod to return for another thereby reducing drop time to a minimum and danger to the vessel to as small a window as possible. These dropships are as rugged as all Griven technology, but are hampered in non drop roles by their slow hyperdrive and lack of weapons making it a risk for the Griven to rely upon these vessels for intersystem cargo transportation. The "DragonFire" name is a translation of the Griven term for the fire breath of a dangerous predator from their homeworld, the more correct translation is "Firey Vomit", however the difficulty of translating the Griven Language due to the galaxies unfamiliarity with it requires some imagination to be used in translation of names.
