Description: The Hyperborean model Companion Droid was designed to fulfill many functions desired by business travelers, superstars and other people. It has a complex set of skill packages that allow it to function in many different areas- although it was intended as a combination Protocol and Guardian droid. It is available in many different skin tones and body sizes as well as different sexes. From well muscled to svelte the Hyperborean can fulfill your needs as a partner in business as well as in the bedroom. The droid was created after a customer wanted a traveling companion that possessed the qualities of a protocol, litigation, medical, pleasure, and security droid all rolled into one. Made of the best materials available- this droid is top of the line and excels in everything it was equipped with from the factory.
