Creatures D6 / Kouhun (Venomous Insect)

Name: Kouhun
Type: Poisonous Insect

Dexterity: 4D+2
Perception: 2D+1
Strength: 1D+2

Special Abilities

Poisonous Bite: Kouhun have a poisonous bite which does 8D damage if it manages to breach the victims skin (any successful hit which manages to overcome any armour).

Venomous Sting: Kouhun have a secondary attack with their tail which although not fatal can prove to be a distraction. If a Kouhun does damage to a victim requiring strength to overcome it, the victim is distracted by the pain of the venom coursing through their veins that they lose 1D from all skill use until the venom is treated, or runs its course after around 30 minutes.

Move: 6
Size: 0.3m long

Description: The kouhuns of Indoumodo are equipped with two means of delivering venom into their victims. Their mouthparts inject a fast-acting nerve-poison to kill their prey. Their tail-mounted stinger delivers a painful, but non-lethal, venom. Assassins employing kouhuns typically starve them in advance of their deadly assignments.

Small, silent, deadly arthropods, kouhuns are extremely poisonous creatures employed by assassins who don't want to be traced. They can be delivered remotely, and instinctively seek out the body heat of their target.

Zam Wesell employed a pair of kouhuns in an assassination attempt against Senator Padm? Amidala. She stowed the creepy creatures aboard her ASN-121 droid, and dispatched the floating mechanical to Padm?'s Coruscant apartment. Cutting into her bedroom window, ASN-121 released its deadly cargo. A sudden burst of Force-intuition alerted protector Anakin Skywalker to the kouhuns' presence, and he stormed in and hacked the creatures to death with his lightsaber.

Page designed in Notepad, logo`s done on Personal Paint on the Amiga.
Stats by FreddyB. Descriptive Text and Image is from StarWars.com, copyright resides with LucasFilm.
Any complaints, writs for copyright abuse, etc should be addressed to the Webmaster FreddyB.