Description: The Lazgoi Tanker Transport is a vessel used for transporting smaller quantities of starship fuel around the galaxy. While the Empire, New Republic and other major shipyards require massive amounts of fuel to be delivered to keep the fleets dependent on it operational, smaller stations and depots throughout the galaxy require far smaller amounts, and therefore the multi kilometer long tankers that serve the Empire would not only dwarf their destinations but also be a very uneconomical way of supplying them. The Lazgoi due to its smaller size can supply only two or three depots (or only a single larger installation), or even provide supplies to out of the way backwater worlds, but does this with far less overheads than supertankers lowering the cost of the fuel to these destinations. Lazgoi's are fairly common throughout the galaxy, and Tagge Co has made a fortune selling these reliable transports to fuel shipping companies, governments and military forces across the galaxy.
