Broadband Antenna:

Can intercept and decode most communications frequencies. Can patch into shipboard and vehicular communications systems.

Personal Cloaking Field:

+4D to Sneak and Hide skills when Cloaking Field is active, the cloaking field uses extremely large amounts of energy and therefore can only operate for 30 Minutes before it requires recharging and also registers of some short range energy scanners. The Cloaking field is disrupted by energy weapon use within the field, so the operator is limited to physical weapons if they wish the cloak to remain intact.

Description: Mandalorian Infiltrator Armour is the latest design from the designers of the Mandalorian Empire, designed to incorporate a personal cloaking field, this armour is not as heavy as some of the other designs of Mandalorian Armour, however its stealth capabilities more than compensate for this deficiency. The armour has only been issued to some scout, sniper and infiltration units, but is reporting a high degree of success with operators managing to avoid unneccessary combat and strike targets with more accuracy and speed. However the expense and relative weakness of this design of armour means that it will never replace the various other variant designs of armour used by the Mandalorian Empires military forces.
