Description: The Nebulon-H Frigate was introduced a number of years after the Battle of Endor, a faster and larger variant of the Older Nebulon frigates. Kuat Drive Yards have sold these vessels to both sides in the continuing war, with the vessels serving as patrol and attack vessels using their massively uprated weaponry. Nebulon-H's have erased much of the memory of the poorly performing Nebulon-B's which were so common during the early parts of the Galactic Civil war, and which lost so many lives on both sides due to their weak and poor design.
