Description: The SE-4 has been on sale for over a century, and as long as Industrial Automaton keeps buidling them the public keep buying them. A perfect droid to have around the house, to organise and keep it tidy, as well as beign perfect for dinner partys where it can show off its range of cooking skills, and its wide knowledge of etiquette. It has often been joked that the SE-4 is for people who think that Protocol Droids are too relaxed, but it is exactly this fussiness and attention to detail that keep people buying them.
