Knights of the Old Republic d6 Energy Shields

Energy Shields are used for extra defense in a heated battle. Energy Shield generators are worn like bracers on the forearm, where controls are easily accessible. Once activated, it generates a body-forming force field to protect the wearer. Clothes, weapons, armor, or other items are not encompassed by the shield to ensure maximum offensive capabilities.
When used appropriately, energy shields can make all the difference between life and death.
The main weakness of energy shields is that physical objects may still pass through it, in this sense, they are not traditional force fields.
