Description: The DC-15B is an older weapon from Blastech, which shows many of the features that were continued on into the StormTrooper series of blaster rifles. Although weaker, shorter ranged and carrying a smaller ammunition capacity, the DC-15B continues in service across the galaxy, and is a common weapon on backwater planets where newer technology is not yet affordable. The Rebel Alliance equipped its troops with DC-15B's for a short time, before newer weapons became available to them, the DC-15B's were then used as reserve weapons as many of their parts are interchangeable with the newer weapons, or distributed to resistance groups across the galaxy.
