Description: Less common than its anti-speeder little brother, the 1.6 PD S-Tower is a long term emplacement designed for dealing with Walkers and Starfighter attacks on installations. With advanced targeting systems, heavy armour and a powerful weapon, the S-Tower is extremely good at the job it was designed for, however the permanency of its construction, taking many weeks to both disassemble and reassemble, meant that it was of little use to the Rebel Alliance, and one of the major purchasers of Atgar Arms passed it over. The tower has been bought by some poorer worlds as spaceport defences, and the extremely long range of its weapons have been abused by more than one corrupt politician to try to keep a populace under control.
