

Name:

Hypori

Type: Terrestrial

Temperature: Hot

Atmosphere: Type 1

Hydrosphere: Arid

Gravity: Standard

Terrain: Rocky Landscapes, Small Oceans

Length of Day: 26 hours

Length of Year: 164 local days

Sapient Species: Geonosians

Starport: Limited Service

Population: 10 Million

Planet Function: Manufacturing

Government: Hive

Tech Level: Space

Major Exports: Starfighters, Droids, Weapons, High Technology

Major Imports: Foodstuffs

Description:

After the Battle of Naboo, the Republic passed strict laws that severely hampered the manufacture and distribution of battle droid armies. Massive corporate entities like the Trade Federation appeared to comply with the new legislation, shutting down numerous factories within the Republic borders. In truth, they simply moved the bulk of their operations to worlds outside the Republic's jurisdiction, continuing their work in secret.

Geonosis was one of the largest of these covert foundries. The nearby world of Hypori was another. A temperate world rich with minerals, Hypori has no intelligent life. The leaders of the Baktoid Armor Workshop sponsored a colonial effort, transporting an entire Geonosian hive to Hypori. Though the tough bedrock and soil proved difficult to assimilate into a true and proper hive-mound, the Geonosian workers nonetheless turned the planet into a massive foundry, churning out battle droids in preparation for the war to come.

Jedi Master Daakman Barrek discovered the foundry during an intelligence-gathering mission with his Padawan Sha'a Gi. The two reported it into Coruscant, who dispatched an elite Jedi taskforce complete with clone trooper infantry to destroy the facility. Disguised orbital mines crippled much of the taskforce before it even made planetfall.

On the surface, the Separatist military commander, General Grievous, led the battle droid army that destroyed what remained of the taskforce.

---

Page designed in Notepad, logos done on Personal Paint on the Amiga.

Stats by FreddyB. Descriptive Text and Image is from StarWars.com Copyright resides with LucasFilm.

Any complaints, writs for copyright abuse, etc should be addressed to the Webmaster FreddyB.