Capsule: The Acclamator Transport ship was created at the start of the Clone Wars as the primary method of transporting the Republic's new clone army. These vessels were so powerful and successful that the Star Destroyer range of vessels were based on their design. The Acclamator was a large transport vessel which could carry 48 AT-TE's, 36 SPHA-T's, 320 Speeder Bikes and 80 Republic Gunships along with the 16000 troops it was built to carry. Although most of these vessels were decommissioned, some continue operation in reserve fleets and in cargo carrying roles, and even though none were sold to private concerns, the Corporate Sector authority purchased some, and various pirate fleets have managed to "acquire" Acclamators of their own.
