Description: The Zephyr-G is a utility Swoop by the Mobquet manufacturing company, designed as a practical cheap alternative for Speeder Bikes, however the difficulty in controlling these powerful bikes has led to them being outlawed on most civilised worlds. Although this has meant a lack of new models and spare parts, the Zephyr-G is still common on backwater planets, where its speed and reliability makes it a popular choice for not only the racing and gang scenes, but also for everyday work on farms and the like where it may be necessary to cover large distances as quickly as possible. The Zephyr-G while not as popular as the Flare-S, still manages to be common throughout the frontier, and the low failure rate on parts means that these rugged vehicles last for years without repairs even on some of the most hostile of planets.
