Droids D6 / RanCorp SynthDroid

RanCorp SynthDroid

Synthdroids are a powerful bodygaurd droid that has synth-flesh grafted onto it's metal frame making it seem human or any other race. They can attach hair, change eyes, and make droids to appear as any race. The distinguishing feature is that their hair is dead flat as if they were dolls. These droids can be made to duplicate any humanoid species. They can seem quite passive but when they need to they are strong, fast and deadly. The best feature is the CCIR (or Centraly Controled Independant Replicant) design. This means that each droid is controlled by a main station not too far from the droids' location. The main station can be set to control an almost unlimited number of these droids but the droids are so costly that there's hardly ever more than a dize in any one person's posession. These droid can pass for real living creatures under all but the best biosensors though people have become easily able to tell when it's a synthdroid. These droids quickly replaced the SH-00t ER series Undercover Body Guard Droids as a favorite for body gaurds.
