Creatures D6 / Viscid Lurker (Stinging Jellyfis

Name: Viscid Lurker
Classification: Jellyfish
Skin color: Pink/blue
Distinctions: Electric tendrils
Point of origin: Koboh
Habitat: Dark waters, Phon'Qi Caverns
Diet: Water-borne mites, Krill

Dexterity: 2D
Perception: 1D
Strength: 1D

Special Abilities

Electric Tendrils: Viscid Lurker tendrils emitted a sharp electrical shock powerful enough to sting larger species, but lethal to its prey, these do 4D Energy Damage.

Move: 8 (Swimming)

Description: The viscid lurker, sometimes referred to as simply lurker, was a species of jellyfish-like aquatic invertebrates endemic to the Outer Rim planet Koboh. The species dwelled in dark, underground waters of the planet, intentionally avoiding natural light. The viscid lurker fed on water-borne mites and krill found in such sunless waters.
The viscid lurker was a dangerous species to encounter, as their tendrils emitted a sharp electrical shock powerful enough to sting larger species, but lethal to its prey.

Skoova Stev, a fisherman who resided on Koboh, caught a viscid lurker in the Phon'Qi Caverns in 9 BBY and put it in the aquarium at Pyloon's Saloon. Given his diminutive statute, the Sakavian made a reputation for himself for his abilities to infiltrate the small dwellings of lurkers and catch them.

Stats by FreddyB, Descriptive Text from WookieePedia.
Image copyright LucasArts.
Any complaints, writs for copyright abuse, etc should be addressed to the Webmaster FreddyB.