Description: Mercenary sentry droids were a type of droid that existed in the galaxy by the early New Republic Era. A number of the mercenary droids ran past a series of hangar blast doors as they opened and HH-87 Starhopper starfighters launched from them, and several were destroyed when one of the fighters later crashed and exploded.

Mercenary sentry droids' plating was painted black and blue, but was heavily weathered and rusted. Many of the saucer-headed droids wore tattered capes, and wielded blasters.
