Equipment D6 / Akira Armor Co Soltan Battle

Akira Armor Co Soltan Battle Suit

The Soltan Battle Suit is comprised of a black or blue combat jumpsuit under a torso carpice. The torso peice is a shell made of a derivative of veritane. The shell is built actualy over a lattice of thin connectors seperating two plates, inside and out, forming distinct 'crumple zones' like those found in speeder bumpers. The result is that the armour can absorb signifagant ammounts of physical damage such as melee weapons and hand to hand blows. Against energy attacks the shell provides as much protection as a stormtrooper's chest plate added with the combat jumpsuit for signifagant coverage. At jsut over 6 thousand credits this armour is targeted towards the more well off, serious customers.
