I'att Armament Enhanced Stormtrooper Armor Shield System (ESASS)

The ESASS was a great leap forward in stormtrooper protection. I'att Armament, a long time ally of the Empire, produced this product to protect the Empire's many stormtroopers. The field produces anti-energy bursts just out of phase with blaster fire. Zersium flecks that are bonded into the advanced body glove amplify the field. It is a key element of the entire system.

The ESASS combines an anti-energy field and Zersium flecks in the body glove to make a nearly impenetrable anti-blaster field. If field is broken through, energy field is disabled until repaired. The system is built in to the regular stormtrooper armor except rebalanced for the added weight.
