Equipment D20 / BlasTech DL-44 LE

BlasTech DL-44 LE

The BlasTech DL-44 LE was a limited edition variant of the DL-44 that was only sold in extremely small numbers (1,064 to be exact). The internal mechanics were revised slightly, giving the weapon as much punch as BlasTech's T-21 light repeater. However, the added punch required a lot more power, limiting the DL-44 LE to only ten shots per power clip. The only stronger blaster pistol currently being manufactured is BlasTech's T-6 Thunderer (6D+2), which is being sold more openly and can readily be found in most major cities.

Physically, one cannot tell the standard DL-44 from the DL-44 LE with a simple glance. The only notable difference in appearance is the production number, which is engraved in small numbers on the bottom of the handle.

Collectors are eager to pay large sums of credits for any of the first fifty DL-44 LEs to be produced (copies 0001 through 0050), as they make an excellent addition to any weapon collection.
