BlasTech 35/A Blaster Rifle

The BlasTech 98k blaster rifle was later replaced in the Thrawn era by a smaller, more wieldy counterpart weapon - the BlasTech 35/A blaster rifle.

The first of the "35" series weapons, the BlasTech 35/A shares alot in common with its brother weapon the 34 MT rifle. Its blast clip is fed through the bottom of the weapon, but the loading process for the 35/A has been made even simpler.

By physical contrast, the 35/A blaster rifle looks similar to the Mestic Munitions M-16 Infantry Rifle, with the same style stock and forearm configuration. The front portion of the weapon is slightly different, having a smaller bottom tude to allow gas from the weapon to escape.

The BlasTech 35/A blaster rifle didn't completely replace th 98k blaster rifle in the Trawn era, however found an overwealming 77% replacement percentage with the StormElite.
