Vetricon Anti-tank mine

The END-8 anti-tank mine can actually serve as an anti-personal mine too. It detonates when a repuslorlfit field or enoguh rpressure comes over it. The blast is almost straight up but still expand sotuward for a few metetrs. An unwary footsoldier who steps on one of these mines is likely to blow himself and a few of his buddies to hell and back. The mine is usualy buried very close to the surface and so sin't all that hard to detect really with the right equipment.
