VerdantTech VT-36E "Excalibur" Assault Rifle

Like its carbine cousin the VT-36k, the Excalibur V&-36E was marketed towards elite mercenaries and government covert operations groups. It was made from an enforced and special sensor treated durasteel polymer capable of taking great abuse and being left in a jungle for ten years and still functioning when it's found. It has a very significant stopping power and a fairly considerable range for what is really a close range weapon.
