Description: The Grutchinya was a close relative of the genetically created Grutchin used by the Yuuzhan Vong. The Grutchinya was created in response to the rising need to use Grutchin within a planetary atmosphere. The larger Grutchinya was created to fill the role of a planetary Grutchin. The Grutchinya was similar in many ways, although much larger and engineered with a much stronger shell. A number of improvements were made to the creature's strength and abilities, which also required some training on the part of the Intendants caring for the creatures.
