

Weapons D6 / Pook-leng Metalworks D

Daemon Sword

Swords in the modern galaxy are generally considered a collector's item as they pose no real purpose. Ancient armies used to carry swords and battle axes into war, but in the modern era, blasters and artillery pieces are the weapons of choice.

Authentic antique swords are a rarity and usually cost up to a few thousand credits each, depending on their condition. However, there are replica swords that sell for much less and resemble the real thing.

The Daemon sword replica is one of the most popular sword replicas on the market today. It features a long double edged blade with an ivory handle carved into the shape of a daemonic creature wrapping itself around a human male who's arms are extended outward just below the start of the blade. For those who wish to carry the sword as a weapon rather than make it part of a collection are given the chance to purchase a vibro modification kit that will make it a Daemon vibrosword.
