

Weapons D6 / BlasTech PPR-2

Personal Plasma Rifle

When BlasTech designed the PPG-1 they had never expected it to excel in performance the way it did. Deciding to expand on the personal plasma weapon concept, BlasTech went to work designing a plasma rifle. The result was the Personal Plasma Rifle, or the PPR. The PPR was the second in the line of the PP-series and was dubbed the PPR-2. The rifle resembles a smaller version of the BlasTech A280, and with good reason, BlasTech took the main chassis from the A280 and incorporated the plasma concepts into it. The PPR-2 uses the same power clips as the PPG-1, using two of them at once. The clips are small and cylindrical shaped, fitting into a spot on top of the stock.
