Planets D6 / Vradil Pix

Vradil Pix

Vradil Pix is the homeworld to the legendary Sis`aimon Blade Masters. The planet is a planet full fo extremes. It has a severe axial tilt and an irregular orbit of the system's star that causes it's climate zones to be radicly different. The planet can be absicly borken down into five zones, each with a seperate climate. The first is up near the northern pole, this zone is covered in arid desert waste land and stretches all across the top of the pole. It has temepratures nearing 112 degrees during the day and temperates up to 10 below at night. The next zone moving southward is the humid jungle areas. The land of the main continent (on the western hemisphere) approaches the oceans here and is kept very humid by the water. However the tmperatures are better regulated as well. It is still very hot in the day but it's cool and pleasant at night. Next is the Rain Forest Areas all around the equator. Still on the mian continenet, this zone is at the very southern tip of it and is surrounded by the ocean. There is terrential downpour one out of three days and is constantluy and almost ubearably humid. At the south pole, all around the pole again, not on west or east hemisphere, is the Tudnra zone. Here the temperatures are at a high when they are 15 degrees below zero, with lows of 80 below. Very little lives here, and the Sis`aimon only inhabit the edges of it near the water of this arctic continent. The last zone is sort of it's own continenet and takes up the entire eastern hemisphere except for the two poles. It is coevered in water and dozens of archipeligos spread out over the water. Many of the islands in this huge cluster are volcanic. The entire planet is covered in dangerous plants and animals. From posionous insects , snakes, and fruits/vegttables, to large and deadly predators able to tear even armoured walkers and tanks apart. Not only are there these antural beasts, but evil dark side creations such as Trollocs and Myrddraal walk the planet as well, waging constant war with the Sis`aimon.
