Planets D6 / Galactic Trade Center

Galactic Trade Center

The GTC, as it's called in passing, is the only moon in existance to have been turned into an artificial structure. The entire world is covered in city, even underground. On this world, you can find ANYTHING, if you know where to look. Most of the city is underground, with seals that close up should the security be comprimized. What's more, the seals look exactly like the rest of the floor when closed up, so it will take nothing short of trial and error to find one once they have closed up.
